FeatureIntegrationAndAdministrationDev

General Description

A method of storing key module information in a central table to allow new modules to be integrated into the administration and menuing systems without editing either tmeplate code or php, but instead using an admin page to update a database table.

Key Function and sub-features

- List of modules stored in a db table
- Associated Admin page url from same table

Related Links

Admin Interface Prototype by Chris

Typical Uses

Case Studies

Bugs

Support Requests

For more information