Jean-Marc Libs (aka Jyhem) discovered Free Software on the Internet in 1995 and has made it the centre of his career ever since.

Jean-Marc lives in Strasbourg where he deploys Tiki sites and has also been working as part of the global Tiki developers team since 2008. Before that, he has had a long professional career as consultant and project manager in a French computer engineering services company, which allowed him to gain a solid overview of existing technologies.

He recently founded alsawiki.com so you can hire him for open-source and Tiki-related work.
