Not meaning to sound negative and i know new people join all the time but this one can be a bit Ground Hog Day for us old ones mrgreen

*(thinking while typing)... presented like this, yes.
May be it can be "presented" or introduced differently to keep it more open.
Overall, it can be reduced to more "sexiest" and more practical (what we do next) sections, something like:*

"What do you expect a website generator should do"

"How would you qualify Tiki"

"Who are the people interested in such software"

"Where to find them"

That way new comers can feel they have something to say while we keep on target.

Do we have a discussion about future components for Tiki somewhere?

I think we should discuss making it possible to swap the tiki parser for Markdown (Commonmark) some time

Good discussion. Ideally, this can permit WYSIWYG which maintains text syntax.
